Global Summit Meeting 2024

1. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The 2024 Global Summit, titled "The Impact Imperative: Building a World that Works for All," convened from March 7 to 9, 2024, at the New York Stock Exchange in New York City. This pivotal event assembled a diverse coalition of members, activists, leaders, and practitioners united in challenging the prevailing paradigm of shareholder capitalism. The Summit's core mission was to catalyze cross-sector collaboration that prioritizes social impact and equity, with a deliberate focus on reimagining wealth, power, and value systems through the lens of communities most affected by systemic disparities.

Complementing this, the Summit of the Future was held on September 22-23, 2024, at the United Nations Headquarters, New York, addressing pressing global challenges and sustainable development priorities. This was immediately followed by the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Moment on September 24, 2024, underscoring the ongoing global commitment to the 2030 Agenda.

In parallel, the World Bank Group hosted its inaugural Global Digital Summit in 2024, spotlighting the transformative potential of digital technologies to accelerate development and alleviate poverty. This event featured influential leaders from the World Bank, Verizon, Microsoft, and other key stakeholders, emphasizing digital innovation as a critical enabler for equitable economic growth and sustainable development.

Collectively, these 2024 summit events underscore a global strategic pivot toward equitable economic systems, sustainable development, and digital innovation as essential pillars for addressing multifaceted global challenges.

2. KEY ATTENDEE BACKGROUND

•

Members, Activists, and Practitioners: Representing civil society and grassroots movements, these participants bring firsthand perspectives on the social and economic impacts of current systems, advocating for equity and inclusion.

•

Leaders from Various Sectors: Including corporate executives, policymakers, and thought leaders who influence economic and social policy frameworks. Their stakes lie in redefining capitalism to integrate social impact metrics alongside traditional financial performance.

•

World Bank Group Representatives: Key figures focused on leveraging financial and technological resources to foster global development and poverty reduction.

•

Technology Sector Leaders: Executives from Verizon, Microsoft, and similar organizations, vested in the role of digital technologies as catalysts for development and inclusion.

•

4. IN-DEPTH DISCUSSION POINTS

Reevaluating Capitalism:

The Global Summit's challenge to traditional shareholder capitalism invites a fundamental reassessment of economic models. This includes integrating social impact and equity metrics into corporate governance and investment decisions.

Cross-Sector Collaboration:

Effective solutions require partnerships across public, private, and civil society sectors. The Summit highlighted mechanisms to foster such collaboration, emphasizing shared value creation and inclusive decision-making.

Focus on Impacted Communities:

Central to discussions was the imperative to center policies and economic reforms on communities historically marginalized or adversely affected by existing systems of wealth and power.

Sustainable Development Priorities:

The Summit of the Future and SDG Moment reinforced the urgency of aligning global efforts with the 17 Sustainable Development Goals, particularly in light of emerging global risks and inequalities.

Digital Technologies as Enablers:

The World Bank's Global Digital Summit underscored digital innovation's capacity to accelerate development, improve service delivery, and expand economic opportunities, especially in underserved regions.

Integration of Themes:

The convergence of social impact, sustainability, and digital innovation across these summits suggests a holistic framework for addressing 21st-century global challenges.

5. CRITICAL QUESTIONS

How can traditional shareholder capitalism be effectively transformed to prioritize social impact without compromising economic viability?

What specific frameworks or models can facilitate sustainable cross-sector collaboration that genuinely centers impacted communities?

In what ways can digital technologies be scaled responsibly to ensure equitable access and avoid exacerbating existing inequalities?

How can the outcomes and commitments from the Global Summit, Summit of the Future, and Global Digital Summit be aligned and operationalized to maximize impact?

What metrics and accountability mechanisms should be established to measure progress toward building a world that works for all?

How can global governance structures, such as the United Nations and World Bank, coordinate to support integrated approaches to equity, sustainability, and innovation?

6. ACTION ITEMS

•

Develop a Cross-Sector Collaboration Framework:

Initiate the creation of a detailed model for partnerships between governments, private sector, and civil society that embeds social impact metrics and prioritizes impacted communities.

Establish Monitoring and Evaluation Metrics:

Design and implement comprehensive indicators to track progress on equity, social impact, and sustainability aligned with the SDGs and summit commitments.

•

Leverage Digital Innovation for Inclusion:

Formulate strategies, informed by the Global Digital Summit, to expand access to digital technologies in underserved populations, ensuring responsible deployment.

•

Coordinate Follow-Up on Summit Outcomes:

Organize inter-agency and multi-stakeholder working groups to operationalize key recommendations from the Global Summit, Summit of the Future, and SDG Moment.

Engage Stakeholders in Continuous Dialogue:

Maintain ongoing forums for members, activists, leaders, and practitioners to share insights, challenges, and successes in implementing impact-driven economic models.

Align Global Policy Initiatives:

Work with UN bodies and the World Bank to harmonize policies and funding mechanisms that support integrated approaches to sustainable development and equitable growth.

•

Communications and Advocacy Plan:

Develop a comprehensive communications strategy to publicize the vision and progress of these initiatives, fostering broader awareness and support.
